Anzac Day

On 1915, 25th of April, Anzacs arrived at Gallipoli. Australian and New Zealand soldiers formed part of the English empire, so they were on the side of the English.

To this day, people celebrate Anzac Day to honour those who have fought for Australia. Over 8000 Australian soldiers were killed in this one battle.

At our school, Westgrove P.S, the students are celebrating the 100th year of Anzac Day. We celebrate Anzac day with respect, we give a minute of silence to respect the Anzacs, and we also play the Last Post to respect those who have died at the great battle at Gallipoli, during World War 1.

Each class made a beautiful wreath to go under the flagpole.

Lest we forget.
